“Having looked into a number of different companies, I knew instantly that Linbrooke was where I wanted to be. The services provided to former military personnel are categorically unparalleled.”

PAUL WILDGOOSE

Name: Paul Wildgoose

Job Title: Resource Manager for Power Networks

Joined Linbrooke: February 2015

Career Background

Medically discharged from the Royal Marines due to injuries sustained in service, Paul spent 18 years in Her Majesty's Forces in both commando and trainer based positions.

After working globally for almost 2 decades, he then went in pursuit of a new career that could benefit from his extensive military experience.

Training courses attended

With a thirst for learning and the proven ability to provide practical and proactive service, Paul undertook the fibre and telecoms course at our National Training Academy (NTA) at the beginning of 2015. Having researched the most popular work opportunities, his view was to find suitable and rewarding employment as swiftly as possible.

Why Linbrooke?

With Linbrooke's geographical location serving as a secondary incentive, Paul's primary motivation for choosing Linbrooke resulted from our reputation for providing resettlement and training to service leavers.

The viable employment opportunities provided also functioned as a sustainable inducement. Training at the NTA supplies candidates with the opportunity to display prowess within a potential future workplace.

Linbrooke Career

Having already demonstrated extreme diligence, dedication and the ability to engage with others, Paul's obvious abilities ensured him the offer of employment within the first week of completing his training.

Currently working as the resource manager for Linbrooke's power/utilities department, he now manages all aspects of deploying in excess of 20 plus teams as well as launching low and high voltage jointing operatives to deliver and meet key client requirements across the power spectrum of NPG.

Would you recommend Linbrooke Services / ntrs to others?

"Having experienced the quality driven and proactive ethos of both Linbrooke and ntrs, Paul stated that "I would definitely recommend both the training and working with such an active and hands-on company – particularly for service leavers struggling to integrate back into civilian life."
